The mission of the Seacoast Science Center is through programs, exhibits, and marine mammal rescue, we inform people, from toddlers to grandparents, about why a healthy ocean is important. We educate to motivate. We want everyone to recognize and understand that what we do every day has an impact on the health of the ocean and that ocean health impacts our daily lives. A healthy ocean drives our quality of life today and will for future generations.

To deliver innovative, compassionate, integrated health services and support that are accessible to all in our community, regardless of ability to pay.
